WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—Re-turn tickets and mileage books bought before the higher fares allowed to the railroads are effective will not be valid when the new schedules go into effect, it was stated at the office of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

How the commission will handle the problem of tickets purchased before the new fares are made operative for use after their effective date is now being worked out. Commission officials emphasized, however, that travel for the present rates would not be permitted after the effective date of the new levels.

It is expected an order will be issued permitting the railroads to refund the amount paid for return coupons or unused mileage and commutation books.
